FSC Foundation

The FSC Foundation (a title taken from the three first letters of Fratres Scholarum Christianarum - Brothers of the Christian School) was established by seven provinces of the De La Salle Christian Brothers in the United States together with Manhattan College (N.Y.). Resources of the foundation initially and presently are provided by the Christian Brothers Investment Services (CBIS), a financial advisory company with offices in Oakbrook, Illinois and New York, New York. The Christian Brother founders of CBIS determined from the very beginning of the company that it would set aside a significant portion of any of its profits to be used to support and advance educational services for the poor, especially victims of systemic injustice.

This is the principal goal of the foundation; it represents yet another effort to continue and expand the three-hundred-year old Lasallian tradition of serving the poor through education. In this way the caring vision of St. John Baptist De La Salle (1651-1719) for the needy will be extended even into a fourth century.

The FSC Foundation invites proposals to initiate and/or support educational projects which look to serve the poor, the hand-capped, and others victimized by society. It hopes that ultimately such projects will become self-reliant and their participants will be enabled to help themselves.

Although the foundation has rather modest resources, it hopes to be able to grow in the future and thus augment the number of projects and persons it can assist.

Philosophy and Objectives

The FSC Foundation has been established to promote and support educational services directed to the poor and disadvantaged.

The FSC Foundation seeks to discover and support “new and adapted forms of education for those poor who are most neglected.”

The FSC Foundation hopes to encourage and energize through financial assistance organizations which wish to accept the challenge to assist the poor and marginalized in our societies by providing effective educational services for them.

Project Parameter Guidelines

The FSC Foundation will support educational activities, projects and services that attempt to respond creatively to the needs of these poor and/or handicapped in the following ways:

1. Structured educational training centers, such as schools, community service centers, vocational training centers, etc.
2. Alternative educational services such as training for independent living, counseling and personal support services, family training and employment skills training, etc.
3. Making small grants not to exceed $3,000.
4. Making grants to help projects get started.

The FSC Foundation will accept proposals from organizations that are in accordance with its philosophy and objectives, and that are in compliance with its guidelines.

The FSC Foundation will not consider:

1. making grants for ongoing salaries, and administrative expenses, tuition scholarships or endowments
2. a proposal for a project that received FSC Foundation funding within the past three years
3. multiple proposals from the same organization within the same year. Applicants are asked to limit themselves to one proposal per year.
4. proposals for capital campaigns
